This image displays a series of 24 wireframe screenshots illustrating the user interface for course selection and management on a mobile device. The interface is designed for the SFU GoSFU application, showing various steps from course search to enrollment and swap processes.

The wireframes are organized into four columns and six rows:

- Row 1: Shows the initial course search screen, the "My Course Cart" screen, and the "Plan" screen where minimum program requirements are checked.
- Row 2: Shows the "Plan" screen with specific course details and enrollment requirements, followed by a sequence of three screens showing the selection of lecture and tutorial sections for ECON 201.
- Row 3: Shows the "Plan" screen with course details, followed by a screen showing courses being added to the cart, and finally a confirmation screen for adding courses to the cart.
- Row 4: Shows the "My Course Cart" screen with courses added, followed by a screen showing courses being removed from the cart, and finally a confirmation screen for removing courses.
- Row 5: Shows the "Courses" screen with successful enrollment, followed by a "Swap" screen showing alternatives to ECON 201, and finally a confirmation screen for selecting replacement courses.
- Row 6: Shows the "Courses" screen with a swap success message, followed by a "Swap" screen showing a replacement course, and finally a confirmation screen for canceling a swap.

The wireframes illustrate the flow of course selection, including filtering by term, adding courses to a cart, choosing specific sections, and managing course swaps and removals. Each screen includes navigation buttons, a search bar, and a header with the SFU logo and "GoSFU".
